

ABSTRACT

In wireless communication arrangements that utilize a transmission period of time followed by a retransmission period of time, the utilization and effectiveness of retransmission communications can be advantageously increased by dynamically assigning
5 desired communications to respective retransmission time slots of the retransmission period.

000000"628T960